ABOUT

Our Influence and Impact

Independent Women’s Forum (IWF) and Independent Women’s Voice (IWV) exist to make this a freer, better country for women and their loved ones. We are the leading women’s group explaining a broad range of policy issues to essential audiences. We ask different questions, approach problems creatively, and see opportunities where most others haven’t. We don’t just talk about problems, but we identify solid policy solutions, take action to create better outcomes, and have impact.

REACH: In 2023, IW and IW spokeswomen were mentioned in broadcast media 8,716 times, averaging approximately 24 mentions per day. Bringing IW’s total reach from broadcast coverage to over 944 million.

IW experts often serve as trusted resources to members of Congress—testifying and holding messaging briefings on key issues.

Weighing in on cultural news of the day, economy, foreign policy, education, law, and everything in between, chances are you have caught one of our IW spokeswomen on a tv screen or radio near you!

POLICY/POLITICS

Heather R. Higgins

*Chairwoman,
Independent Women's Voice*

📍 New York, NY

✉ @theHRH

Heather leads Independent Women's Voice (IWV) as CEO, where she uses her passion for helping people make informed decisions to create a vision and overall strategy for IWV's efforts. Heather chairs the board of Independent Women's Forum (IWV's sister organization) and she is also on the board of the Hoover Institution at Stanford University. In addition, she is on the board of many of UBS's mutual funds, and is a member of the Council on Foreign Relations.

She was named as one of the "50 Most Influential People" by Campaigns & Elections magazine for her issue advocacy and being a thought leader. Heather previously worked in finance and as an editorial writer for the Wall Street Journal and assistant editor at the Public Interest magazine as well as a money manager at US Trust.

When not working, Heather loves to cook, hike, and make friends laugh. She continues to write opinion editorials and appears on a variety of radio and television programs. The Higgins's have six children—three two-foots who are all now in their twenties, and three four-foots (one adventuresome cat and two squirrel obsessed dogs) who live in New York with Heather and her husband.

Riley Gaines

*Ambassador,
Independent Women's Forum
& Independent Women's Voice*

📍 Nashville, TN

✉ @Riley_Gaines_

Riley Gaines, 12x NCAA All-American swimmer, serves as an Ambassador for Independent Women's Forum and Independent Women's Voice. Gaines has received national attention for speaking out against the NCAA's discriminatory policy of allowing biological males to take roster spots, opportunities, and awards from female athletes. Gaines, a recent graduate of the University of Kentucky, famously tied biological male Lia Thomas in the 200-yard freestyle at the 2022 NCAA Division I Swimming Championships.

After Gaines directly experienced competing against a man in women's sports and forced to undress in front of a fully intact male exposing his genitalia in the women's locker room without being forewarned nor the opportunity to provide consent, she became one of the first female college athletes to speak out against the injustice, challenge the rules the NCAA, USA Swimming, International Olympic Committee (IOC), and other athletic governing bodies have in place.

She believes that allowing male-bodied athletes to participate in women's competitions will destroy the integrity of women's sports and leave women vulnerable. Gaines has encouraged other female athletes to come forward and highlight why the issue is blatantly unfair and harmful to females.

CULTURE

Payton McNabb

Ambassador and Marketing Intern, Independent Women's Forum

📍 Murphy, NC

✉ @paytonmcnabb_

Payton McNabb is an Independent Women's Forum Ambassador and marketing intern. McNabb is a high school senior and athlete. She has joined IWF to share her personal experience of competing against a biological male athlete, how her life forever changed following an injury during the game, and her desire to speak out to keep women's sports female.

Last fall, McNabb was knocked unconscious and exhibited a fencing response following a forceful blow to the head from a volleyball spike by a biological male playing on the opponent's team. The sheer impact of the ball has left McNabb with significant long-term physical and mental effects, including impaired vision, partial paralysis on her right side, and anxiety and depression.

McNabb testified before the North Carolina General Assembly in April 2023, alongside IWF Spokeswoman and 12x All-American swimmer Riley Gaines, to advocate for the passage of a Fairness in Women's Sports Bill. During her testimony, McNabb said, "I'm here for every biological female athlete behind me. My little sister, my cousins, my teammates. Allowing biological males to compete against biological females is dangerous. I may be the first to come before you with an injury, but if this doesn't pass I won't be the last."

Paula Scanlan

*Ambassador,
Independent Women's Forum
& Independent Women's Voice*

📍 Philadelphia, PA
✉ @PaulaYScanlan

Paula Scanlan is an Ambassador for Independent Women's Forum and Independent Women's Voice. She officially partnered with IW in July 2023 to advance our joint mission of defending women's single-sex spaces and standing up for the right to free speech.

Scanlan graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, where she was a member of the women's swim team. Inspired by fellow female athletes, Paula broke her silence in June 2023 on her experience as a teammate of Lia Thomas and the efforts of her college's administration and student body to silence her and suppress her right to free speech.

Scanlan has encouraged females, especially athletes, to come forward, share their stories, and join her in making change to protect women everywhere.
